

CHERRY BLOSSOMS BLOOMING

Cherry Blossoms Blooming in Washington, D.C.

The cherry blossoms are blooming in Washington, D.C. The cherry blossoms are a sign that spring is coming! Cherry blossoms are beautiful pink and white flowers that cover more than 3,000 Japanese cherry trees around the city. The mayor of Tokyo, Japan, gave the cherry trees to Washington, D.C., in 1912. Washington, D.C., usually has a festival to celebrate the friendship between the U.S. and Japan. The festival has been cancelled this year because of the coronavirus. People can still enjoy signs of spring in their area, including blooming flowers, chirping birds and green leaves.

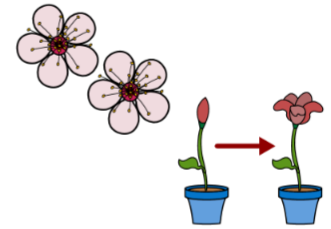

Photo Credit: Shutterstock/Hang Dinh

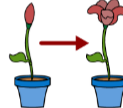

WHAT

CHERRY BLOSSOMS BLOOMING

Cherry blossoms are blooming in Washington, D.C.

The cherry blossoms mean spring is coming !

Cherry blossoms are pink and white flowers.

They

grow

on cherry trees.

Washington, D.C., has more than 3,000 cherry trees !

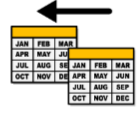

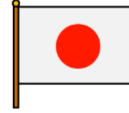

3,000

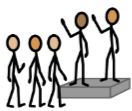

The trees were a gift from Japan many years ago.

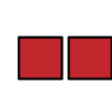

Washington, D.C., usually has a cherry blossom festival.

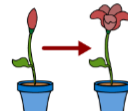

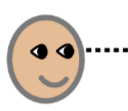

Leaders canceled the festival because of the coronavirus.

People can still watch for spring near them.

They can look for blooming flowers !

1. WHAT is blooming in Washington, D.C. ?

corn stalks

cacti

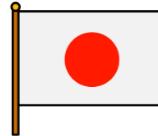

cherry blossoms

2. WHAT country were the cherry trees a gift from ?

Japan

Germany

Australia

3. WHERE is the cherry blossom festival usually ?

Fresno, California

Atlanta, Georgia

Washington, D.C.

